General Project Requirements:

Members may not be left at the training facility without prior knowledge of the Key Leader. Parents are required to stay on grounds during all events. At the training sessions, children may not run around in the buildings or training area. Please closely supervise children that are not in the Dog Project class. Playing in the front rooms of the Exhibition Building is strictly prohibited.

If a dog has prior training the member and dog will be moved to a class level appropriate due to the prior training.

- ◆ All training at practices must be done by the 4-H member.
- ◆ The dog and member must be entered in the level of training the dog has completed, and is not based on the training the member has completed.

- ◆ The dog must live in the home of the 4-H member.
- ◆ The dog must have vaccinations current at the time of county training.

Obedience and Showmanship

All classes with the exception of the Senior Class can be found on the Colorado State 4-H website.

Senior Class: This class is for older dogs that are not capable of training or competing in regular obedience classes. The purpose will be to work on and show the obedience exercises without the stress of perfection typically seen in regular obedience classes. Older/Senior dogs may enter this class if they are not able to perform the exercises in other classes, but must have approval from the Key Leader. Senior dogs in this class will train along puppies that are working in the Puppy Class also.

Rally Obedience

All classes may be found on the Colorado State 4-H website.

Homework:

A quick 10-15 minute training session every night with your dog will result in fast success. It's as simple as putting your dog on a sit or down stay during the commercials of your favorite TV show! Work on that thing that doesn't seem to be clicking and make it fun. Enlist the help of friends and neighbors to work on sit and stand for exam or help with distraction during a long sit or down stay. Family and friends can also be your "judge" in the practice showmanship ring. Work the triangle and "L" shaped patterns so you and your dog are comfortable with both. Print off some rally signs (cdn.akc.org/Rally/2017-rev-rally-minisignswdescriptions-1-2018.pdf) and create your own course in the back yard or basement. Switch up the signs every time so your dog pays attention to your commands. Put treats and your dogs favorite toys on the ground and create an obstacle course through them—you should be able to do it without Fido reaching for a treat or toy. Go for a walk and practice slow and fast pace, left and right turns, about turns, halt and sit in random places, and always work on a loose leash. If your dog seems to be getting bored, switch things up and teach him/her a new trick, a skill that is the next level up, or play a game. The more bonding time you can get with your dog, the better team you will be in the show ring. Ask questions and for homework from your trainers and most importantly, have fun!

BEHAVIOR RULES:

Dogs that have an aggression problem towards either other dogs or humans cannot be used as project dogs. Dogs can be excused from the training sessions and/or the Weld County Fair at any time for behavior that in the opinion of the leader and/or superintendent puts people and/or other dogs at risk. Temperament Test Certificates received may also be revoked at any time for such inappropriate behavior. All 4-H members must keep their dog on a leash at all times, unless directed otherwise by a training leader, superintendent, clerk, or judge.

Members must keep their dog at a reasonable distance from other dogs. This is approximately 6 feet from your dog. If you are using a 6-foot leash and your dog is at the end of the leash, then assume the other member also has a 6-foot leash. This means that you, the human, are approximately 12 feet from the other human.

4-H E-Record Books:

The Dog e-Record Project Book is specifically designed for the Dog Project. A new version of the e-Record book is available at <http://co4h.colostate.edu/program-areas/projects/e-records/>. From there, select the appropriate Dog e-Record link for your age group (Junior—ages 8-10; Intermediate—ages 11-14; or Senior—ages 14-18) (based on your age as of December 31 of the previous year. 4-H Dog Project members will complete their record books immediately following the Weld County Fair Dog Show. The following day, members will bring their record books to the project interview. Dress in nice pants and a shirt for this interview and be prepared to discuss what you have done with your project throughout the year.

Record Book Tips:

1. Start early, set your goals for your project in March (or as soon as you can)
2. Work on the record book throughout the year
3. Document everything you do with your dog including the cost, travel distance, etc.
4. Your record book must include proof of current parvo and rabies vaccinations.
5. Your record book must include a current Temperament Test certificate obtained by passing the test with your key leader in May or June.
6. Document what you work on when you train with your dog and include it in your record book
7. Have someone take photos of you at dog training night or working your dog at home
8. Look for community service opportunities that are related to your project—serve as an AKC Ring Steward, volunteer at your local animal shelter, put together a food drive for your local animal shelter, etc.
9. Learn! Study the 4-H resources as well as breed specific information for your pet.
10. Give your 4-H demonstration speech about your dog project and include it in your record book.
11. Make sure your writing is concise and complete.
12. When it is time to put it all together, type your information into the record book. Make your 4-H story personal and include your challenges as well as your successes in your project.
13. Make sure your record is complete, including your county fair results.
14. Keep your record books and judging sheets from year-to-year for future reference.
